Weather Report.
For the West Gulf States: Occasional rain or snow, with winds shifting to easterly northerly, and stationary or higher barometer.

PRICE AND EDITIONS have purchased the Marshall Messenger.

THE question of the purchase of the street railways by the city is being discussed in Chicago.

CONGRESSMAN TOM YOUNG of Ohio is mixed up in a little affair in which he is asked to show a receipt for a large amount of money.

NASHVILLE, (Tenn.) had a two hundred thousand dollar fire yesterday. The Capitol warehouse filled with cotton was burned.

THE GAZETTE will make no effort to give the market report again until it has secured a full force. We beg the indulgence of the public.

THE United States has few ships or men-of-war in its navy, but its array of admirals, commodores and captains challenges the admiration of the world.

THE prohibitionists of Iowa are disposed to try the issue again, and at their state convention demanded that the prohibitory resolution be re-submitted to the people of the state.

POLITICS are going to be unusually exasperating in 1884, and it will take a man with the cuticle of a rhinoceros to stand the shafts that will be hurled at him when he appears on the rostrum.

THE GAZETTE desires to return its thanks to its esteemed cotemporary the Dallas Herald for its expressions of sympathy, and its notice that non-union printers can find employment at this office.

FROM our dispatches it appears that the Internal Revenue bill will succeed the Ways and Means Tariff bill in consideration by the house, which if done will be to rush the former through under a suspension of the rules.

THE St. Louis Post-Dispatch has leased a telegraph wire between that city and Chicago. It already has a wire connecting with New York and now has better news facilities, probably than any afternoon paper in the United States.

WE lay down the composing stick and seize the faber just long enough to remark that the proprietors of the GAZETTE, who furnish the "sneers of war" which gives it life and vigor propose to manage their business in their own way in future.

SENATOR ELECT CULLOM of Illinois gets off on the wrong tack by announcing that he does not intend to let the great language annihilator overshadow him as a political manager. Mr. CULLOM forgets that the people have expressed an unqualified disapproval of the rule of the bosses.

THE Brady Sentinel of the second inst., has reached us printed on manila paper, owing to the want of prompt transportation facilities. It has its usual quota of news and the following sensible and laconic paragraph:
Subscribe for the Fort Worth GAZETTE, the best paper in Texas.

MR. GEO. B. LOVING left yesterday for San Antonio to attend the stockmen's convention. His steady nerve, sound judgment and practical common sense would serve well at home just now.—Evening Democrat.

MR. LOVING with his "sound judgment and practical common sense" has justified himself with the "shabby genteel vagabonds" with whom he leaves the management of his business during his absence his ideas of how the business should be conducted. He is advised of the situation and says, "stink."

THE make-shift tariff revision will not satisfy the public. It is weary of juggling, and of promises made to the ear to be broken to the hope. The people are bent on having a reform in the civil service—national, state and municipal—and a revision of the tariff, honestly and equitably made, as the first condition to purer and better politics, better administration and higher statesmanship. And they will break to pieces any party that stands in the way of their purposes.

THE GAZETTE can only judge of the current sentiment in regard to the "strike" in its office by the expressions that reach it, coming voluntarily from its patrons. As far as heard from its position meets with unanimous approval and endorsement. The GAZETTE from its inception, has never been conducted on a penurious or niggardly principle. On the contrary, its generosity and liberality have been highly commended by all, and every one will concede that there was a living vital principle involved in the position it was forced to assume.

EVERY once in a while the Waco Examiner says something that is proof conclusive that a man of good judgment inhabits its sanctum. In its last issue it says "if the Texas Senate has any level-headed conservatism in its make-up it will sit down on Mr. CHENOWETH's railroad bill, which passed the house. The bill not only establishes a tribunal and methods of questionable constitutionality, but it will actually enable most of the roads to render smaller assessments than they do now." The bill appears in another column.

IN the house Mr. RANDALL asked Mr. BURROWS if he meant to dispute his word. The latter, who was speaking on the tariff bill, declined to yield the floor when RANDALL said: "This is the last place I would seek a personal controversy, but I want you to be a man and if you want to insult me to do it in some other place than here." This is the whole of the controversy between the two gentlemen and upon an explanation an understanding was reached. There was some confusion during the remarks which lasted only a few minutes, notwithstanding that it will be elaborated into a column by some of the newspapers.

AN effort was made a few days since to get the house at Austin to adopt a resolution allowing the use of the hall to a temperance lecturer. The question was debated for some time, the more able representatives opposing it. Several amendments were offered and voted down but the one which struck the key note of all this temperance lecture mania which is prevailing at Austin, was that offered by Mr. URRON to allow the hall to be used by all the other lobbyists who wanted to advocate their special business. "Lobbyists." There is an appropriate name for those who are lecturing on temperance with a view to securing the prohibition amendment. The members of the house thought they were temperate enough without being persecuted by a harangue as stale as it would be ineffectual. The debate on the question, and the result of the vote shows that the gentlemen who compose one branch of the legislature are consistent and if they remain so no injudicious step will be taken in a matter of so much importance to the state of Texas.

THE defaulting treasurer of Alabama is described as a man of middle age, was a Confederate soldier, has a wife and two children and was popular. He was for many years register in chancery of Chambers county and was private secretary to Governor HAYDEN of Alabama from 1874 to 1878, being elected treasurer in the latter year and reelected in 1880 and again last year despite a popular opposition to third-termism. His honesty was his strong point as his ability was only moderate. His salary as private secretary was $1,500 and he lived modestly. As treasurer he got $2,100. There was a marked change in the style of his living when elected treasurer, but it was reported he had made some lucky deals in futures and he was supposed to live on that. His style of living has even been luxurious. He has kept a carriage and fine horses, has bought diamonds for his wife, silver for his table, a house to live in, and furnished it handsomely. He lived in all respects as the upper ten. He was an amateur of some pretensions as a poker player. The knowing ones shook their heads but the public went on in the blind faith that he had means.

Printers Strike.
The Stock Journal Publishing Company and their compositors are in trouble. The Printers' Union, at a meeting held Sunday evening, decided to make a general advance in the scale of rates, and so notified all the printing establishments in the city to-day. The GAZETTE refused to accede to their demands and a lock out ensued. The printers demand an increase of 25 cents per thousand ems for day work and an increase of per diem wages for job printers and day foreman. Mr. W. L. Malone, business manager of the Stock Journal Publishing Company, in conversation with a Daily Democrat reporter stated, that about two weeks ago his company voluntarily increased wages from 35 to 40 cents a thousand for night work, and from 30 to 32 cents for day work, at the same time reducing the hours of employment nights by two hours. Mr. Malone further stated that he can see no justice in the demands of the printers, and will not accede to it. A general lock-out of printers occurred this afternoon, and it is in doubt whether the GAZETTE will appear in the morning, but it is more than probable that a small edition will be issued. The Daily Democrat sympathizes with its contemporary, and hopes that the trouble will be but temporary, and that it will arrange its matters satisfactorily ere long.
The printers held another meeting this afternoon and decided not to go to work until their demands were acceded to.—Evening Democrat.
The above is substantially a correct statement. To which we may add, the GAZETTE has held another meeting and decided not to accede to any demand from any source founded on injustice, and never to recognize the right of any body of men, or any individual to regulate its management; and never to give employment to any man who yields obedience to any higher authority than his duty to his family, himself and his employer.

A DEED OF CHARITY.

Let the Generous Help Those who Help Themselves.

Among the families to whose necessities the St. Andrews Ladies Aid Association has contributed is Mrs. Wayley, an estimable widow lady with five children dependent on her for support. For some time she has maintained them by washing, but her failing strength will not permit her longer to thus earn her daily bread. She wishes to buy a sewing machine and thus provide bread and rainment for herself and little ones. Mr. Elser, with characteristic liberality, has sold to St. Andrews' Ladies Aid Association a sewing machine at less than one-half the selling price, and the ladies now ask all who can to contribute in sums of fifty cents each to make up the amount necessary to secure Mrs. Wayley the machine. To this end the GAZETTE will publish the names of contributors, and pay the money so collected—fifty cents only from each person—to the association and publish their receipt therefor.

A Neat Dodge to Raise the Wind.
A Vienna man who had always been unlucky in his financial matters, at last hit upon a scheme where he "raised the wind." Being ill, he sent for a lawyer and dictated a will in which he bequeathed vast sums of money to relatives and charities. The lawyer spread the tidings, and those of his acquaintances who neglected to pay court to the dying millionaire were greatly chagrined. But the millionaire presently recovered, and then it was that fortune hunters begged him to invest their money, urged him to accept loans, and gave him a credit second to none in the city. At first he coolly refused these flattering testimonials, but was gradually forced to relent, and having lived in clover for a considerable time has just failed for an enormous sum.

Cold Weather—Lambing Season.

The recent cold spell was one of more severity than is usual in this latitude, and stockmen may congratulate themselves on their good fortune in sustaining no serious losses. A few flocks of sheep on open ranges without any shelter from brush or brakes, which had been badly managed through the winter, or just been located, suffered losses, but in no instance where flocks had been properly managed do we hear of any suffering. In the southern and western part of the state the losses were very light, confined entirely to new importations and old worn out stock. We have had a very open, dry winter in this section, and it is reasonable to expect a wet spell to follow a drought, and flock owners should bear in mind that during the next few weeks the most important period of the year will come and that in lambing time it is necessary to have dry ranges for their flocks. They should make every preparation for a wet spell and if it does not come they will only be the better off from having prepared for it. Some flocks commence lambing very early in February, and a few exceptional cases commence this month. Such as do commence this early will have to exercise great care to protect the lambs from cold winds, and the herding in large flocks should be avoided. To make a successful early lambing a breeding flock should have at least three shepherds to every thousand ewes, and more would be better, and the flock should not be over two thousand in number.—Texas Live Stock Grower.

Preserve Fence Posts.
Take boiled linseed oil and stir in pulverized coal to the consistency of paint. Put a coat of this all over a fence post before placing it in the ground, and there is not a man living that will see it rot. This valuable and economical means of preserving wood can be used to great advantage in Texas. Without means are taken to prevent the wood from rotting, a wire fence with wood posts is very little in advance of a rail fence in the expense and trouble of repairs. We don't know who first gave the above receipt to the world, or would give credit to whom credit is due.—Texas Live Stock Journal.
